Welcome to

Clemson

It is my pleasure to officially extend the known hospitality of Clemson.

We want you to enjoy not only this highest football game between old athletic foes, but also the wholesome camaraderie you find in this extraordinary stadium of 'good seats only'.

Clemson today is a college in name, but a university in makeup. It is large enough to serve and to share, yet small enough to be personal and friendly. It is an historic place, embodied by lovely old acres and imposing new buildings. But, too, it is a vital place; stimulating, challenging and satisfying—permeated by a spirit of learning and finding.

We think, with some prejudice, that Clemson is a wonderful place to live, to work, and—as we are sure you will agree this afternoon—to play. We hope, too, you will come to feel it is a good place to visit and will plan to be with us often.

About The Coach . . .

The 1963 season marks Frank Howard's 33rd on the Clemson staff and his 24th as head coach. Clemson and Howard have grown together — both physically and in prominence. The Tigers have become known nationally under his guidance.

Howard's Tigers have played in six major post-season bowl games — more than any other team in the Atlantic Coast Conference — and the Tigers also have the best bowl record of any ACC team with four wins and three losses.

In the 10 years of conference competition, Howard has guided the Tigers to an overall 63-36-1 mark, second only to Duke. Against league foes only, the Tigers are 36-16-1 going into the 1963 season.

Of the 581 games Clemson has played since it's first team, Howard has seen 310 of these — 225 as head coach and 85 as line coach.

The Century Club . . .

Fourteen coaches who are at major football institutions (as classified by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau) have now won 100 or more games in their careers. No coach joined the "Century Club" last season but there are three possible members this year. Buff Donelli of Columbia and R. L. Blackman of Dartmouth have each won 93 games and Frank Camp of Louisville has 92 triumphs. Coach Frank Howard of Clemson ranks sixth in the nation for the most wins in a career. Listed below are the "Century Club" members.

The Maryland Series

Frank Howard and Tom Nugent might not be the closest of buddies, but their football teams have offered some rather breath-taking thrills in the past four years.

And what's more, some of the same is expected today. The personnel is there on both clubs.

It'll be Clemson's defense against the top offensive man in the conference and one of the nation's leading pass receivers.

Dick Shiner makes his third appearance against the Tigers. He is one yard past the 1,000 mark with 970 coming through the air.

Shiner's main target? Flanker end Darryl Hill, a will-o-the-wisp lad who generally zigs when the opponent zags. Hill has pulled in 32 passes good for 423 yards and seven touchdowns thus far this year, including a last second catch and a spectacular run against the Air Force for a 21-14 win.

While the Terps are expected to go to the air the Tigers will probably turn loose a running game which has become a Clemson trademark.

The Tigers are first in the conference in rushing offense, averaging 182.8 yards a game. And in the three defensive categories Clemson ranks first in total and rushing defense and second in defense against passing.

Clemson's two lines have thus far made living pretty hard for its opponents. Ted Bunton, Richard Cooper, Billy Weaver, Tracy Childers, Walter Cox, the four ends and four tackles have given up yardage grudgingly.

Pat Crain, Bob Swift, Mack Matthews, Billy Ward, Hugh Mauldin and Jimmy Howard have provided a grind 'em out look for the Tigers. Jim Parker and Thomas Ray have directed the attack.

Bunton and Gene Feher can be counted on for an above average job of linebacking. Bob Burton, Jerry Fishman, Len Chiaverini and Ernie Arizzi are back up men for Shiner and Hill.

Clemson claimed its only win over a Nugent-coached team last year, that by just three points. But Nugent's three wins have been just as close or closer. He owns two three-point and one two-digit wins over the Tigers.

A sic 'em from both coaches today will probably mean another overworked scoreboard.

All-America Game—Showcase of the Stars

With the first three games now sports history, the East-West All-America Game has established itself as one of the nation's great gridiron classics.

The nationally televised game, played in Buffalo, N. Y. each June, was founded by the American Football Coaches Association. The object is to bring together the 60 best college players in the country, who have been graduated that year, to participate in one great football game.

By selecting a date in June, after graduation and before the start of pro football training, there is no interference with other bowl games or college studies.

The All-America Game is truly the Showcase of the Stars. There is no other game, in any city at any time of the year, that can boast so many football greats from college graduation classes.

From this "baby of bowl games," sponsored by the American Football Coaches Association and The Buffalo Evening News, have come the young men who have written pro football headlines.

Out of the first game in 1961, won by the West 30-20, came Marv Luster, UCLA end who was voted the most valuable player overshadowing such stars as Navy's Joe Bellino, winner of the Maxwell and Heisman Trophies and generally chosen as Player of the Year; Earl Faison, now with the San Diego Chargers; Danny LaRose, Missouri end who made it at tackle with the Detroit Lions; Pitt's Mike Ditka, who became the NFL's pro rookie of the year.

Luster, who signed with the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Big Four and became an All-League selection his first pro year, caught six passes for 120 yards, scoring one touchdown. Washington's Bob Schloredt passed for one for the West.

Wake Forest's Norm Snead started at quarterback for the East but Georgia's Fran Tarkenton threw three touchdown passes when he took over. Tarkenton, of course, went on to become regular quarterback for the Minnesota Vikings in his rookie pro year, while Snead did the same for the Washington Redskins.

Jim Owens of Washington and Murray Warmath of Minnesota, whose teams played in the Rose Bowl game that year, handled the West in the inaugural.

W.W. "Woody" Hayes
*Ohio State
President, AFCA*

John McKay
*So. California
West Coach*

Rip Engle of Penn State and Bill Murray of Duke ran the East.

The next year, Woody Hayes, Ohio State's stern taskmaster, headed the East coaching staff, which included Murray again and Ben Schwartzwalder of Syracuse.

Warmath was in command of the West, with Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue and John Ralston of Utah State as his aides.

Hayes' OSU star, Bob Ferguson, who went on to the Pittsburgh Steelers, was the Most Valuable Player in the East's 13-8 victory. He was the heavy-duty ball-carrier in Hayes' crunching ground game and climaxed his night by sprinting 38 yards off tackle for the winning touchdown.

Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State, now with the Los Angeles Rams, directed another 44-yard scoring drive, going over himself, but one of his passes was intercepted and run back 70 yards by Minnesota's Tom Hall for the West touchdown.

From that game came Gabriel, quarterback for the Los Angeles Rams; Sandy Stephens, Minnesota quarterback, who joined Luster at Montreal and earned an All-Star berth; Nick Buoniconti, Notre Dame lineman who was the AFL's best rookie linebacker with the Boston Patriots.

This year, the Coach-of-the-Year, John McKay, who guided Southern California to the national championship and victory in the Rose Bowl, was in charge of the West, with Frank Broyles of Arkansas and Bob Devaney of Nebraska as assistants.

Milt Bruhn, coach of Wisconsin's Big Ten champions, headed the East coaching staff, which also included Murray and Charlie McClendon of Louisiana State.

Bill Nelsen, quarterback of Southern California's 1962 champions played all but 35 seconds in directing the West to a 22-21 upset victory. He fired two touchdown passes and a two-point conversion, which actually decided the game.

Washington State's Hugh Campbell, caught eight of Nelsen's passes, two of them for touchdowns and was voted the MVP honor.

Notre Dame's Daryle Lamonica, who completed 6 of 9 passes for 109 yards, combined with speedy Willie Richardson of Jackson State for the game's picture play, a 24-yard touchdown pass.

These were the stars of the 1962 college season. Like the numerous All-Americans of the two previous years, The American Football Coaches All-America Game may be their springboard to professional fame and fortune.

Loyalty - Service

The Clemson Alumni Association

A two-fold program of loyalty to Clemson College and service to an alumni family of nearly fifteen thousand former students is the first dedication of the Clemson Alumni Association.

It is the objective of the Association, as stated in its constitution, to maintain fellowship among former students and to keep alive a sentiment of affection for Clemson; to unite the former students by a common tie of fellowship; to foster among them a genuine regard for one another; to actively promote the welfare and development of Clemson College; and to sponsor the Clemson College Foundation, whose trustees are charged with administering and disbursing the income from the Alumni Loyalty Fund in the best interest of Clemson, its students, its faculty, its alumni and the State of South Carolina.

The Clemson Alumni Loyalty Fund, number one project of the Association, had its beginning in 1958. Each year its income is used to defray the expenses of the service program, then to make grants to programs of scholarship, fellowship, distinguished professorships, research, the library, student government, permanent endowment and others. Since 1956, when the Alumni Association was reorganized, more than half-a-million dollars has been given by Clemson Alumni to advance the college's educational and research programs.

The alumni service program has been greatly expanded in recent years. The Clemson Alumni News is sent to the alumni each month. The Alumni Placement Service is in its seventh successful year, and the reunion program has grown in leaps and bounds to become a highlight of every college year. More than 60 local clubs are active in the United States and the Alumni Office works closely with them to assure interesting and informative programs. Some of these services are available to all former students for whom the Alumni Association has correct addresses. Other services are available to those former students who help perpetuate Clemson's living endowment program through annual gifts to the Loyalty Fund.

The NCAA

by ROBERT F. RAY, Dean, Division of Extension and University Services, State University of Iowa
President of the National Collegiate Athletic Association

All across the nation today more than a million college football fans are enjoying watching their favorite teams in action, yet few realize that less than 60 years ago football faced a serious crisis.

It was the flying wedge, football's major offense in 1905, that spurred the formation of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The rugged nature of football, typified by the mass formation and gang tackling, was causing too many injuries and deaths. Many institutions discontinued the sport. Others advocated that it be abolished from the intercollegiate program.

Public clamor rose to such crescendo that President Theodore Roosevelt summoned athletic leaders to two White House conferences to urge reformation of the game and warned an executive edict might be forthcoming if his request passed unheeded.

The NCAA evolved from a meeting of 13 colleges and universities called in early December, 1905, to bring about reforms in the playing rules. At a second December 28 meeting in New York, the Interecollegiate Athletic Association was founded and officially constituted March 31, 1906. The NCAA took its present name in 1910.

In his address to the first annual convention, December 28, 1907, of the Interecollegiate Athletic Association, its president, Palmer Pierce, United States Military Academy, stated:

"The purpose of this Association is, as set forth in its Constitution, the regulation and supervision of college athletics throughout the United States, in order that the athletic activities in the colleges and universities may be maintained on an ethical plane in keeping with the dignity and the high purpose of education. All institutions enrolled as members agree to take control of student athletic sport, so far as may be necessary, to maintain in them a high standard of personal honor, eligibility and fair play, and to remedy whatever abuses may exist."

Fifty-six years later, with programs of intercollegiate athletics vastly different from those in effect in 1907, the philosophy expressed by General Pierce remains the basic philosophy of the NCAA. The advances and progress which the Association has made during the 56 years of its existence can be attributed largely to the fact that its ever growing membership and its leadership have not lost sight of these principles.

From a modest beginning when representatives of 13 institutions came together in December of 1905, the NCAA of 1963 has a total membership of 607, including 542 colleges and universities, 32 allied conferences, 13 associated institutions, and 20 affiliated organizations.

The NCAA on occasion has been incorrectly referred to as an organization of large colleges and universities. While every college and university conducting a major athletic program does hold membership in the NCAA, there are nearly 375 College Division members, i.e., smaller institutions.

The fact that NCAA membership is important to these smaller institutions is confirmed by the enrollment figures which show that the NCAA College Division has more than tripled—from 111 to nearly 375, in the last 10 years.

The final authority and governing body of the Association is the annual Convention held during the first part of January. The establishment and direction of the general policy of the Association between Conventions are committed to a Council of 18 members. An Executive Committee of 10 members is elected by the Council to transact the business and administer the affairs of the Association and carry out the policies of the Convention and Council. Members of the Council and Executive Committee are some of the nation's leading college professors, presidents, and college athletics officials.

The core of the Association is the work of its committees which determine policy by channeling reports and recommendations through the Council to the annual Convention. The Association maintains 13 standing or general committees, 13 rules committees, six meet and tournament committees, and a number of special committees appointed to undertake assigned projects.

In summarizing the NCAA, it is an organization through which the colleges and universities of the nation speak of and act on athletic matters at a national level. The NCAA stands for good conduct in intercollegiate athletics and serves as the colleges' national athletic accrediting agency. It is a voluntary association of 607 member institutions and affiliated associations devoted to the sound administration of intercollegiate athletics in all of its phases.

It's Different Here!

Are college football games everywhere pretty much the same? — the crowds — the bands — the cheers? Sure there's a similarity—but it's different here! Each game has its own distinctive flavor—spirit—tradition. So it is with uniforms we manufacture. Into them go many intangibles of experience and skill. This is why an increasing number of Units are scoring with "Uniforms of Distinction" by

"Courage, Competition and Character"

by DR. JOSEPH KAPLAN

Department of Physics, U. C. L. A.
Chairman of International
Geophysical Year

Many years ago when I became actively involved in intercollegiate athletics, I tried hard to clarify in my own mind the role of intercollegiate athletics in the university or college. This was not a casual exercise on my part, because I was involved in the development of a relatively new campus of the University of California, and also because of the increasing pressures on all of us of preparation for World War II, and the increasing emphasis on research and graduate work at a University which was destined to become one of the most remarkably developing institutions in the Nation.

Thus the University climate for athletics was a changing one. There developed much more emphasis than ever before on academic achievements, the Nobel Prize, election to the National Academy of Sciences, creative and research activities. One might have expected that intercollegiate athletics, particularly in football and other highly competitive and much publicized areas, would begin to fade into the background until it was practically a minor activity in the University. In large metropolitan areas, the development of professional football and basketball offered a new threat to the popularity and prosperity of the traditionally crowd-pleasing major collegiate sports.

That this fading out of the picture by intercollegiate athletics has not taken place is in itself a remarkable phenomenon of our times. There are real, deep-seated and meaningful reasons for this, of which I will present the three that appear to me to be the most significant. At the same time I will present reasons why the current emphasis on intercollegiate athletics must not be allowed to diminish.

The three reasons to which I referred earlier are basically related to the three most significant characteristics of the modern intercollegiate athletic picture. These are contained in my three word title, "Courage, Competition and Character". To one who is active in the field of international scientific affairs, and who is more than casually aware of the problems that we face as a nation, these three words summarize the real needs of our time. For this nation to survive as a leader among the free nations of this world, we must have courage, we must be able to compete and we must maintain the best in our national character.

Interecollegiate athletics is an area of activity in which all three of these are intimately involved. Both team sports and individual effort require courage, character and the competitive spirit. The demonstrations that one sees of these important elements in our modern existence are easily understood. The language of athletics has almost universal appeal, thus the lessons to be learned are relatively easily communicated. I like the space program because it provides us with a simple mechanism for bringing the beauties of science to the public. I like intercollegiate athletics because it provides an equally effective and simple technique for bringing to the public the meaningfulness of the competitive spirit, character and courage.

Our space activities demonstrate our willingness to cooperate with other nations. Our emphasis on sports, particularly in our colleges and universities, shows the world that we value the attributes to which my title refers. Taken together, these make for a nation in which other people can have real confidence.

The Federation Movement

A New Era for American Sports!

by OLIVER E. KUECHLE

Sports Editor

The Milwaukee Journal

A new concept in the conduct and administration of amateur athletics in this country has taken deep root. It is evolutionary. It is sound. It is an inevitable development as participation in our ever-expanding athletic programs grow.

It is known as the federation movement.

At the moment, it embraces four sports: track and field, basketball, gymnastics and baseball. In time, it will undoubtedly embrace others.

Each field has its own federation. In each, which is the evolutionary part of the concept, the educational community at last has its proper representation through the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations, the National Junior College Athletic Association and other representative agencies. Conservatively, these three organizations, with other federation members, represent more than 85% of the amateur interests in the United States.

The question has been asked: Why new federations? Why? Since kerosene lamps also provided light, why electric lights?

The answer to the federation movement is simple. Those who are the primary contributors to amateur athletics, the schools, believe—nay, now insist—that they have the right to share in the responsibility of establishing policy directly affecting their own programs. They have not had such right in the past. They have merely tagged along. It is the basic philosophy among educational institutions that educators and administrators alone determine the course of their athletic programs within the framework of the over-all educational concept. There can be no retreat from this—no further indifference either.

The federation movement allows all nationally recognized organizations to have voice and vote in establishing basic policy in each sport. It provides, further, that no two organizations within a federation can ever gain control.

Each federation is autonomous. Each operates independently. A few national organizations belong to all four federations. Others belong only to the federation which directly concerns their sport.

The movement is not limited to educational institutions. It has a place for all. Even in these beginnings, most major amateur sports organizations have joined as partners. The one strident dissenter has been the Amateur Athletic Union. It has steadfastly declined all invitations to join.

Through federation programs, the country cannot help but benefit. There will be improved development opportunities, increased competition, enlightened administration. We as a nation cannot help but have stronger representation in international and Olympic competitions.

Here is a brief look at the individual federations:

United States Track and Field Federation (USTFF). It was organized July 24, 1962, and consists of 10 national organizations. In less than a year it has sponsored three national championship meets, a national track clinic and has embarked on an extensive development program for all age groups. It is organized in more than 40 states, with each state conducting its own program of development and competition. The Gulf Coast Federation (Texas) conducted a cross-country meet, for instance, which drew 475 runners and the Michigan Federation held an indoor track meet which drew 625 boys and girls. Outspoken in praise of the USTFF has been Executive Secretary Cliff Fagan of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations: "We (high schools) have always had the biggest potential but, until the federation movement, we have never fully realized our potential."

Basketball Federation of the United States (BFUSA). The 10-member federation, organized July 1, 1962, represents almost all of the organized amateur basketball played in the United States. It has been recognized by the international governing body and will assume independent international sanctioning privileges beginning January 1, 1964. It has a definite program to improve this country's image internationally through better representation in world games and increased international competition. Several countries have already indicated new interest to send their teams to this country in the season just ahead.

United States Gymnastic Federation (USGF). The federation, organized December 9, 1962, has already become the dominant force in gymnastics in this country. A national championship was held in June. Clinics have brought expert gymnastic instructions to coaches and competitors. The federation has embarked upon an intensified national program to popularize gymnastics, particularly among school-age boys and girls.

United States Baseball Federation (USBF). The federation has a basic two-fold program: (1) to help amateur baseball in whatever way it can and (2) to provide the United States with an organization to promote baseball internationally. Under the auspices of the state department, the USBF last summer provided a group of collegiate baseball coaches and players to conduct instructional clinics in Central America.

The new school year brings great new opportunities to the entire federation movement.

free substitution rule returns

... with strings attached

by Charles W. Tucker, Jr.

IN an effort to further liberalize the Intercollegiate Substitution Rule, the Football Rules Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association has come up with a very original and unique rule which will undoubtedly require not only an explanation, but a little time before most of the spectators will understand it.

To put it briefly, the rule for this year concerning substitutions will be as follows: When the game clock is stopped during a period, either team may substitute as many players as they wish, including an entire new team if they desire—except during fourth down and on first down when Team B has been designated as Team A, (in other words when the ball changes hands). On these two downs each team has what we may refer to as two “Wild Card” substitutions, which may be put in whether the game clock is running or not as long as they do not interfere with play.

At first glance one might think we were returning to unlimited substitutions, but actually this is not the case at all. Even though a new team can be sent in on time-outs during any down in the series, except fourth down and when the ball changes hands, the time-outs in each half have been reduced from five to four. Also, whereas last year either team could send in a “Wild Card” on every play, this year the two “Wild Cards” can only go in on fourth down or when the ball changes hands.

During an excess time-out granted while the clock is running, the team to whom the excess time-out was allowed may only replace the injured player or players. The opponents may replace any number of players at this time. However, if the time-out is granted prior to fourth down or prior to first down when Team B has been designated as Team A, neither team may replace more than two players in addition to the injured player or players. It will probably appear odd to the spectators to see a fourth down punting situation with Team A permitted to substitute only two players when they would probably like to put in an entire new team, and just as odd after Team B has received the kick and is awarded first down to be limited to two substitutions when they would probably like to put in an entire new offensive team. Nevertheless, the rule is very specific on these two downs and either team will be limited to a maximum of two substitutions. Under the new substitution rule it will not be necessary to check in substitutes as heretofore because the number of times a player has been in or out of the game will not affect his eligibility. This alone should speed up the game and keep it moving smoothly.

While there are the usual number of rewrites for the purpose of simplification and clarification, there are two other major changes which should be noted here.

AN OFFENSIVE PLAYER IN MOTION TOWARD THE BALL NOT PERMITTED TO CLIP IN AREA WHERE FORMERLY PERMITTED.

Under the clipping rule, which has been in effect for a good many years, clipping was not permitted anywhere on the field of play, except in a zone which was defined as the rectangular area centered on the middle lineman of the offensive team and extending four yards laterally in each direction and three yards longitudinally in each direction.

For the past several years there has been a growing complaint among the coaches as well as players of the punishment a defensive end or a backer-up received from the offensive wingback. The play was a very simple one, the offensive team would line up with the wingback a yard behind his line of scrimmage and five to ten yards outside of his offensive end. On a given cadence count, this wingback would start in motion toward the center just prior to the snap of the ball. Once the ball was snapped, the defensive end or backer-up would cross the line of scrimmage in an effort to break up the play and the offensive wingback, who, by this time had built up a “head of steam”, would let him have it either from the side or in the back. The side block is perfectly legal, but anywhere else on the field blocking an opponent in the back is construed as a clip and so penalized.

Officials were constantly berated by the coaches for not calling what looked like an obvious clip, but the officials were powerless to do anything about it because of the area in which clipping was permitted.

This year the Rules Committee has wisely seen fit to add the following sentence to the definition of the area in which clipping is permitted — “An offensive player, outside this area, in motion toward the ball when it is snapped is not permitted to clip in this area.” This one sentence will now eliminate the possibility of a wingback hitting a defensive player from behind in that area and it will also eliminate many injuries inherent in this play.

BACKFIELD PLAYER IN POSITION TO TAKE HAND TO HAND SNAP FROM CENTER NOW ELIGIBLE TO RECEIVE FORWARD PASS.

In the past years a T-Quarterback, who was under the center in a position to take a hand to hand snap, was not an eligible pass receiver. He could lateral the ball to another back or go back and throw a pass, but he was ineligible to receive a forward pass himself.

In an important game last year, the T-Quarterback, after lateralling a ball to another back, proceeded down field into the opponent's end zone. In the confusion that ensued, the passer spotted this back in the end zone and, not realizing that he was ineligible, threw the ball to him thereby scoring a touchdown which apparently was missed by the officials as well as players at the time. This is a very easy and understandable error to make and the Rules Committee has now decided that there is no reason why this player should not be eligible to receive a forward pass, and has changed the rule to read that “each player who is legally in his backfield is eligible to receive a forward pass.”

Clemson Football Network...

Coggins

Osborne

The Clemson Football Network is celebrating its 10th year of broadcasting this season, and since its inception, has grown to be one of the largest collegiate networks in the nation.

The network, operated wholly by the athletic association, is dedicated to make available to all stations, Clemson football games at economical rates thus giving Tiger fans and other interested parties an opportunity to hear Clemson football when it is not possible to attend the games.

The network has been one of the most successful anywhere. During the 1961 season the network had over 500 station broadcasts, or an average of better than 50 stations per game—an all-time high. Feeds were made to stations in North Carolina, Georgia and South Carolina.

The same two familiar voices will again be on the network for the 1963 season. Jimmie Coggins will handle the play-by-play commentary while Ed Osborne will describe the pre-game warmup, give time out chatter and interview visiting scouts, sportswriters and other personalities in the press box during halftime.

Coggins, the dean of South Carolina sports broadcasters, is owner of Station WKDK in Newberry and is co-owner with Osborne of Station WBCU in Union and WAGS in Bishopville.

Coggins broke into radio 29 years ago with WSPA in Spartanburg. He also worked at WAIM in Anderson before going to Newberry in 1949. Prior to joining the network in 1954 he broadcast the Clemson games during the seasons of 1936-37-38-47-48-49. In 1950-51-52 he did the "Game of the Week" for Station WIS, Columbia.

Osborne served as director of both the Clemson News Bureau and the sports publicity office from 1947 through the spring of 1950. The Clemson graduate then got into radio work with WMSC in Columbia as sales representative and sports director. Since early 1953 he has been manager of WBCU.

Precision chemistry does it. It's the reason behind the widespread acceptance of Texize products for the textile industry... and the reason that Texize is able to produce the finest line of work-saving household products on the market today.

That's why textile people and homemakers alike say...

NOTHING WORKS LIKE A TEXIZE PRODUCT

Three ways to quarterback the most important drive of the day —your drive home

1. Don't buck the line of traffic, stay in it. Fancy open field running doesn't pay on the highway.
2. When dusk falls and your visibility is limited, slow down and turn on your lights. What you can't see can hurt you.
3. Don't try to beat the clock by speeding. Remember, when time runs out on the highway, everybody loses.
